Some Reviews...

« Listening to Forte's poetic reading, it is easy to understand both why C.P.E. Bach was so admired by Haydn and how he remained a strong influence on Beethoven. »

P. Rucker – Gramophone Magazine

« Vittorio Forte phrases Frühlingsglaube as if the singer was close to him, which a kind of « nostalgia » turning notes into feelings. Three « golden » Rachmaninov songs, and three sensual, brightly and finely sculpted Gershwin songs Six jewels that remind us that V. Forte is a stunning artist, and not only one of the most talented pianists of his generation. »

J.C. Hoffelé – Artalinna

Bertrand Boissard – Diapason

« ... rare pianistic skills ... profound musicality ... This takes us to the heart of a singular inspiration in which the notes seem to be born here and now, like a masterly improvisation. All of which resonates in full ... with a fine sound, this Super Audio CD is noteworthy ... »

"From concert to concert, from exploration to exploration, Vittorio Forte builds bridges between worlds, strengthens his playing, the module between shadow and light, gives it a delicacy, a sound of its own, makes beauty vibrate. »

Sarah Franck - Arts'chipels

"It's a piano that is as subtle, fresh and attentive to the slightest breath in the melodic line, all thanks to an accompaniment that brings dynamism and underlying energy that is more than primordial to Chopin, a kind of motor that nothing can stop. Between purity and emotion, the language proposed here enjoys a certain freedom which is perfectly in tune with Chopin's discourse. Everything is measured, thoughtful and always timely. A beautiful piano... poetry in music. »

Ayrton Desimpelaere - Journalist Crescendo Magazine

"A great piano moment, great art! Success guaranteed! A pianist not to be missed. »

Patrice Imbaud - Music Education Magazine
